What 'Irishman' Bought Whitney's Dept. Store ?

Legal Notice Says: Spiegel, Inc.

One begins to wonder why all this fronting when valuable properties change hands. The San Diego Hotel changed hands and everybody knows that the new owner is Jewish. The Germania Hall changed hands and the new owner is not only Jewish but, to boot, the building was rebuilt for government surplus sales which the Jews get for a song and sell for a profit.

So when Whitney's Dept. Store, in San Diego for 40 years, suddenly changes hands and an Irishman is played up in the daily papers as the new owner, while the legal notices in the DAILY TRANSCRIPT describe the owner as Spiegel Inc., General Merchandise, why this fronting by the Irish? Spiegel certainly is no Irishman. Do all the Irish suddenly stem from Palestine, Egypt and Moscow? Oi-oi-oi, Gewalt!

RYAN BUYS WHITNEY STORE

Clement D. Ryan, of Chicago, whose resignation as president of Montgomery Ward & Co. was announced in that city yesterday, heads a group which has acquired Whitney & Co., pioneer San Diego department store, and will take possession Saturday.

Consideration in the deal, which realty authorities describe as the "biggest of its kind ever recorded here," was not disclosed.

Principle associate of Ryan, according to Guilford H. Whitney, president of the establishment, is Spiegel, Inc., of Chicago. The sale, which Whitney personally handled, includes merchandise, fixtures and good will.

But the Daily Transcript shows up the false front:

71052—Notice of Sale—8-23-45, Whitney & Co. to Spiegel, Inc., General Merchandise as a retailer and as a jobber, now at 933 5th Ave., and Broadway, 6th Ave., and E Sts., on 8-31-45 at 5:30 p. m. at office of vendor at 933 5th Ave., and Broadway, 6th Ave., and E Sts.

Does it mean that Jews are afraid to let the people know that they are buying up all valuable properties the way they did in Germany before Hitler? Surplus property sold in the now Jewish Germania Hall is property paid for with our taxmonies. It should be sold to the people at cost. But, no, Jewish jobbers' profits come above patriotism. Buy more war bonds!

Dear Mr. de Aryan:

Enclosed find $2.00, $1.00 of which is to renew my subscription to The Broom, as per attached label. The other is a small contribution to you, and I only wish it could be more, but do not earn a great deal myself.

I, too, am a Leo, my birthday falling on August 15th, so that this year peace came on the eve of my natal day. While happy, as many millions, that the destruction and slaughter are over, still I feel as you do that we never should have gotten into the war in the first place, and it was through the connivance of Churchill and F. D. R. that we finally were drawn into the horrible mess.

I cried when Lend-Lease passed through Congress, for I remembered that it was our loans to England through Morgan and Company that got us into the last war, and I knew this Lend-Lease arrangement was going to have the same result. And I cried again when I heard old F. D. R. declare war against Germany and Japan, because I felt all this could have been avoided with the proper statesmanship at the head of our Government. But he was hell-bent for getting us into the fray and led us step by step into it.

Well! He has passed on to his fathers, and the war is over at last after the terrible devastation of Europe and Japan, and the loss of millions of lives.

Why we should be proud of the atom bomb I do not know, because in my opinion it is barbaric and Satanic. I felt no glow of pride for my country when the Germans and Japanese sued for peace because it was a case of "might making right".

It was your attitude on the war and the entire F. D. R. regime that drew me to your paper, which I look forward to receiving every week, as it is the best truth-telling periodical now being published.

May it live long and prosper.

Sincerely, — — M. L.

Dickstein, Catholic Council for Black-White Marriages

LOS ANGELES,—Heated debate loomed in the second day of a Congressional hearing on immigration laws.

Representatives of the American Legion and the Sons and Daughters of the Golden West were expected to collide with the committee chairman, Rep. Samuel Dickstein (D.-N. Y.)

In a plea for tolerance, Dickstein called the Native Sons "super-restrictionists so far as the Oriental is concerned," after Eldred Meyers, past grand president of the California group, said his organization was unalterably opposed to any modification of the immigration law.

"If you treat them all alike, no one will be offended," Meyers said. "Our position as to Oriental exclusion is because they are unassimilable—they cannot intermarry. Where restriction on marriages exist, there cannot be equality."

David G. Marshall of the Catholic Inter-Racial Council countered by asking for the repeal of laws against miscegenation.

"The Democratic traditions of this country require the repeal of statutes prohibiting intermarriage between people of different races." Marshall said.

"There is nothing physically or scientifically wrong and it has been done for years."

The atom bomb made it possible for us to virtually hold the entire civilian population of Japan as hostages against the Japanese army.

Russia was planning to declare war on Japan about the way Italy declared war on France—just before the kill. By doing this she hoped to accomplish what she has accomplished—the right to cut the Oriental pie at the peace table. She will cut it, not like a conservative member of the family, but like a bear shares porridge with a sheep. She did come in sooner, however, than she anticipated because of the explosion of the atom bomb. Although FDR had promised Russia our military secrets, it is not believed that he told her about the atom bomb. Communists, Internationalists and certain aggressive refugee scientists are insisting that we fulfill FDR's promise literally and turn the atom bomb secret over to Russia. Keen observers here think that such an unwise gesture might easily be the end of the human race.

Hamburg Today Just a Vista of War Skeletons

HAMBURG, Germany,—Hamburg, the greatest of the north German ports, lies shattered, burned, and empty. Here is what allied air power did to Hamburg.

According to a German police estimate made before the city was captured by the British, allied bombs killed around 400,000 of its prewar population of 1,682,000.

About 80 per cent of its buildings are damaged and approximately 60 per cent have been destroyed, according to estimates made by experts of the 8th air force and the bomber command of the royal air force.

PORT FACILITIES RUINED

The oil refineries and port facilities which made Hamburg great are wrecked. The Rhenania Ossag Mineraloelwerke, Ebans Asphalt und Mineralol Werke, and Thorls Vereinigte Harolfabriken Werke, all natural oil refineries located on small peninsulas jutting into the Suder Elbe, were so badly damaged by 8th air force bombs that the Germans admit their repair is impossible within three years.

The port area was hit by 6,938 tons of American bombs and the British bomb tonnage on the same area was half again as high. One of the largest cranes in the world stands twisted and torn.

The black waters of the port are rimmed with the hulks of sunken ships. Seven of the eight large dry docks of Blohm-Voss ship building works have been sunk. The broken hulls of submarines lie in ways, while in assembly areas stand huge round slices of prefabricated submarines like sections of gigantic fish. The ships were never completed because of the bombing.

VISTA OF SKELETONS

Aside from a few tugboats flying the flag of the United States army transportation corps or the white ensign of the royal navy, this harbor, once jammed with freighters flying all the flags of the seven seas, is empty. It is strange to move across it past once busy docks and see nothing on every hand but the upperworks of sunken ships, skeletons of warehouses and to hear only the cry of seabirds. Nothing moves in the shipyards and only a few German civilians move on shore.

But the destruction in the port and in the Blohm and Voss works, although staggering in effect, has no such impact as the first view of the Mamm and Hammerbrook districts, which once housed hundreds of thousands of workers.

WORK OF RETRIBUTION

These areas were systematically destroyed by the RAF in August of 1943 in retribution for the attacks on London, retribution which destroyed the human resources of Hamburg.

The German people do not know how many people were killed in the attacks but it is estimated that the number was close to 200,000. Thousands died in shelters as apartment houses and tenements fell burning around them.

Driving thru the streets of Hamburg with piles of rubble well above the top of a car, it is easy to assume that Hamburg never will be the same again.

Who Started World War II ?

General George C. Marshall
Chief of Staff, Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir:

In the New York Times of August 12th there appears an account of a dialogue purported to have been penned by General Joseph W. Stillwell and supposed to have occurred on Okinawa on August 11, 1945 in the presence of Brig. Gen Julius Ochs Adler, Vice President and General Manager of the New York Times.

The whole account is nothing but subtle Jewish-inspired propaganda—manufactured behind the firing lines, in the heat of the campaign—to pervert the mind of G. I. Joe from certain basic truths.

The sole reason for this maunfactured dialogue is certainly not the enligthenment of G. I. Joe regarding assistance rendered by Confucius to the correct judging of Emperor Hirohito, but rather the instilling into the mind of G. I. Joe of such untruths as:

G. I. Joe speaking: "Here's the way we look at it. The Germans were going along O. K. making stuff and doing business. Nobody bothered them, and nobody stopped 'em from buying what they needed, but that didn't suit them. They wanted to make all the rules themselves. That ain't the way to play ball. You gotta take what the umpire says, both sides. The Germans wouldn't play unless they made all the decisions, so naturally we got into an argument."

The inspiration for this dialogue—evidently cooked up by Brig. Gen. Adler for delivery by the obviously complacent Gen. Stillwell—must have come to Brig. Gen Adler from his reading of an interview printed in the New York Times of August 7, 1933 under the heading: "Who started World War II?—and When?" and purporting to give the views on a worldwide "sacred war" declaration on Germany by the Jews of a certain Samuel Untermyer—not unknown to local New York Jews—upon his return from Amsterdam (Holland), where he had presided over the International Jewish Boycott Conference—at which conference he was elected President of the World Jewish Economic Federation formed to combat the Hitlerite oppression of Jews. Mr. Untermyer then organized and incorporated the "Non-Sectarian" Anti-Nazi League, alleging for charitable purposes only, although this organization has been and is engaged in nothing but Gestapo work and has perhaps done more than all other organizations put together to set one group of people against another in our nation and has caused more disunity among our people in the United States than all other allegedly subversive groups combined. And this organization still carries on today the same nefarious activities under false colors.

Although Brig. Gen Adler would apparently have us believe he never saw that very libelous un-American interview—and afrontery in trying to put one over on G. I. Joe, by using for his purpose a general of the U. S. Army, is very detrimental to the continuance of Unity among American people.

We wish to inquire, whether this matter comes under your jurisdiction, for investigation and correction; or whether it is a matter that comes within the province of the Military Affairs Committee of the Senate or the House of Representatives?

Awaiting your valued reply, we beg to remain very sincerely yours,

Harry Truman opposed the slave labor principle at Potsdam. He was supported in this position by American labor, especially the anti-Communist AFL. The subject was not pressed by Stalin. Therefore, it was not discussed. But Stalin will keep millions of German prisoners as slave laborers, who very likely will never again see their homeland and their families.

Uruguay Youth Still Ignore Conscription Law

MONTEVIDIO,—The problem of enforcing Uruguay's Law of Compulsory Military Instruction is giving government and military authorities more than just one headache. Wholesale ignoring of the law by the youth of the country has for years amounted to popular civil disobedience. Having failed to obtain enforcement by threats of imprisonment and loss of employment, as well as by stirring up patriotic feeling, the Ministry of Defense is just standing by now awaiting possible passage of a more drastic compulsory military service law.

Meanwhile, Communist youth, who at one time were leaders in the fight against militarism in Uruguay, have now decided to get what military training they can. They are about the only ones who are attending classes of military instruction, and not a few members of the government are wondering if they are not nursing a viper in their bosom. In a riot on May 2, the Communists piled park benches for street barricades in their skirmish with the police. Then, presumably, they went back the next day for more military instruction.

The Russian soldiers have completely looted Eastern Germany. They have taken everything of value out of the homes, shops and factories. Witnesses of unimpeachable character reveal that practically all the women of Eastern Germany, between the ages of 12 and 60, have been subjected to repeated rape, except where protected by American soldiers.

If the spirit of Christ can be brought to prevail in international relations, atomic energy might be utilized to make this planet into an earthly paradise. Every family could have a lovely home, a $10,000 a year income and one hour a day of industrial work.

Laying The Foundation For World War III

A NEW "MISTRESS OF THE SEIZE"

In their new role as world judge and umpire the American people cannot safely relax, even to celebrate a victory. The job calls for not only eternal vigilance, but also for continuous effort; and while there is still doubt about whether the Japanese have, or have not surrendered, another problem demands attention.

Newspapers of August 15, had an article by I. L. Kenen, executive secretary of the American Jewish Conference, with the opening paragraph: "The Labor landslide in Britain elections is expected to spill into the Near East and batter down the Tory-built walls that now bar Jewish immigration into Palestine."

This means that under the new Labor government, Britain, while engaged in the highly complicated task of setting up government operation of all basic industries, and taking over the world-wide ramifications of the Bank of England; must also send an army to take Palestine away from Arabs who have lived there for thirteen hundred years, and give it to Jews, because the Jews think their ancestors lived there over two thousand years ago. No mention is made of what the Arabs are expected to do about it. Naturally, the proposition is not so simply and understandable set forth in the Jewish manifesto. It mildly proposes that the Arabs be compelled to abandon their restrictions on Jewish immigration to Palestine. It also demands that Arab immigration into Palestine be stopped, and that Arabs be encouraged to move out of Palestine as Jews move in.

HOW ABOUT HOMELESS ARABS ?

There is a lot about the poor homeless Jews of Europe; but nothing about the Arabs who are to be made homeless in order to give the Jews a new home in Palestine.

If the Arabs, of Palestine, who revolted against the Turks and joined the Allies in War I; who have fought with the Allies in War II, are to be rewarded by having their homes taken away from them, what new brand of justice is the world state supposed to peddle?

If the British Labor government is to decide the immigration policies of the Arab world, can they also decide the immigration policy of the United States? What if they decide to give America back to the Indians?

Before making the final decision about what Britain, even with a Labor government, is going to do about Palestine, it might be well to think carefully about the following quotation from a letter written by Sir Ernest Benn, and published in the London Telegraph a few weeks ago:

"Government can share out our poverty, but can do nothing whatever to make us rich. No political device can keep 648 human beings alive on a single square mile of land."

BRITAIN MUST TRADE WITH MOSLEMS

The Labor government is also pledged to give home rule to Inlia. But Britain must continue to sell manufactured goods to the Indians, or starve. About one third of the people of India are Moslems; and to them, Arabia is as much a home land as Palestine has ever been to 99 perent of the Jews. Is Britain's Labor government giving due consideration to what India will think about giving Palestine to the Jews? —The Individualist, Danville, Va.

Roosevelt promised to share all military secrets with Stalin if he would enter the war against Japan. This promise was made at Teheran when FDR knew that the atom bomb would be a dreadful and awful success.

Jews Want Atomic Bomb to Terrorize Arabs

LOS ANGELES,— Resolutions commending President Truman for his stand in behalf of a Palestine Jewish homeland and urging his continued efforts were adopted at a luncheon of the Los Angeles Committee on Palestine in the Biltmore Hotel.

The action followed a report from Dr. Glen R. Phillips, Hollywood Methodist Church pastor, on the recent American Christian Palestine Committee seminar at Princeton University.

Concluding his report, Dr. Phillips said:

"Dno't tell me that the nation that controls an atomic bomb cannot use its influence to open this homeland for the furtherance of justice and democracy."

Joseph Scott was toastmaster.

Uranium ore (used for making the atom bomb) has become overnight more valuable than gold or gem-bearing ore. Deposits are widely distributed, but Northern Canada has the largest known ore bodies in the region of the Great Slave Lake. It is feared that other northern countries like Siberian Russia may also have other large deposits.

Protests Deportation of Germans

Hon. Harry S. Truman
The White House

Dear Mr. President:

We are sending you a special plea that you intercede with the Attorney General, Hon. Tom Clark, in behalf of the families of about 900 interned German nationals—long time resident in this country, but now marked for sudden deportation—which at best would mean long internment in concentration camps in Germany, but in some cases would signify certain death in Siberia.

Now that the war is over, there is absolutely no sense in permitting a continuance of the pernicious persecution of these men and their innocent women and children of Occidental stock by a spiteful minority, in whose hearts there dwells no sincere loyalty to the United States.

These Orientals possess only a passion for the continuance at our expense of their greedy and parasitic policy of first bringing on panics and drepressions through their hoarding of money, and then using that hoarded money to acquire for a song control of our key industries—all to the end as Benjamin Franklin is said to have prophesied—of reducing our truly loyal citizens to economic slavery and moral degradation as a result of this acquisition by incorrigibly alien Orientals of the various legalized processes that have been invented by avaricious Occidentals for the robbing of their own people through rent, interest, and private profit.

Please bring about the estoppel of the mass deportation proceedings, which ought never have been commenced.

Very sincerely yours,

Dynamite can be used in quantities so minute as to constitute a practical means for cutting glass. If atomic power can be harnessed in proportionately small amounts, we may yet see the time when an individual can fly through the air merely by attaching to his body a 25-lb helicopter, powered and propelled by atomic energy.

Excesses In Germany

Over the week-end every house in the American zone of occupation in southwestern Germany was raided by American soldiers. "Fifteen million Germans in the American zone, taken by surprise, were bewildered and scared," says the Associated Press correspondent in Frankfurt. There were no less than 80,000 arrests, almost all of them, it appears, for minor irregularities. Col. Thomas Sands of Cornwall, N. Y., who led the raiders, said (a) that the search showed less crime than would have been revealed by a similar action in a comparable area in this country; and (b) that those arrested would get "rough treatment." Brig. Gen. Edwin L. Sibert of Vineyard Haven, Mass., who is intelligence officer for the army of occupation, said the raids (a) "upset the civilian population quite a bit" and (b) that this was "a good thing."

In truth, these raids were outrageous. They reflect the greatest discredit upon the officer, whoever he was, who was so ill-advised as to order them. If he thought he must take steps to prevent a civilian rising he made a grievous error of judgment because, as Col. Sands has said, the search revealed nothing to justify such fears. If he was concerned only to make the civilian population fearful and miserable he writes himself down as a brute.

It is almost unbelievable that an American officer could engage in such an enterprise. Perhaps this is to be regarded as the first dividend from the new, or San Francisco, policy of international cooperation. At any rate, our army apparently has been instructed to treat the civilians in a defeated nation not in accordance with decent American practice but according to the European rules. Push their noses into the dirt and make them like it. Walk on their necks. Prove that you are arrogant and unfeeling. Be sure that they learn to hate you, and so make it altogether certain that there will be another war more bitter and bloody than the last one. Those are the European rules. Now they appear to be the American rules also.

We wonder whether the responsible officer ever heard of the Boston massacre or ever read the Declaration of Independence with its indictment of a brutal army of occupation. We wonder if he ever read the Constitution. More especially we wonder if our soldiers are being trained in Europe in the art of terrorizing civilians so that the same foul tactics can be applied in this country. —Chicago Tribune.

The surrender of Japan is the most sensational military function in the history of the human race. An army of 7 million men, fully intact, lay down their arms virtually without one testing battle. Compared to what could have happened, MacArthur's island engagements were merely skirmishes.

"HATE, INC."

Chicago Tribune Exposes the "Hate Spreaders" in their Campaign Against Patriots

(From Chicago Tribune, Aug. 21).

HATE, INC.

Reports are circulated of a proposal to exile some 10,000 of the leading officers of the German army to the United States, Britain, and Russia. Authority for this report is tenuous and the plan does not seem to have substantial backing by our government or any of the allies.

The rumor is , however, being spread assiduously by an organization which calls itself the Society for the Prevention of World War III., Inc. Rex Stout, the cafe society patrioteer who specializes in hate breeding organizations, is its president. His pal, Leon M. Birkhead, the free love parson, is named on the letterhead. So are an assortment of fellow travelers and radio phonies. So also, strangely enough, are a number of decent, civilized people, of whom Booth Tarkington and Dr. Douglas Southall Freeman, Lee's biographer, are perhaps the most widely known.

We have received a letter from this society signed by its executive secretary, one Miriam Stuart. The letter denounces the exile proposal as one designed to permit the escape of war criminals and to spread the nazi infection thruout the world, which it might very well be. It continues, however:

"All members of the German general staff should be executed for the most revolting crimes in the history of civilization. The 10,000 selected officers—far from being exiled to other areas of the world—should be removed forever from the world scene."

This, of course, isn't an astonishing sentiment coming from Messrs. Stout and Birkhead, from the fellow travelers, or from the shouters of radio claptrap. But it is appalling to find other civilized Americans, men well schooled in history, among other subjects, lending their names to such a bloodthirsty appeal.

It hardly need be injected that if any of these officers has been guilty of the slightest infraction of the laws of war he deserves to be punished, and undoubtedly will be punished by Gen. Eisenhower. It isn't punishment that Stout and his ilk are demanding, but a massacre such as even the Apache Indians were incapable of.

This isn't the first effort to maintain and increase war-bred hatreds against our defeated enemies, nor will it be the last. Such appeals and such organizations may be expected to multiply, because there is profit in this kind of hatred; not merely the petty profits of its fomenters, but big profits for those who subsidize them.

There are at least two groups vitally interested in persuading the American people that we should return to the pre-Christian morals of the Roman republic, which sold its defeated enemies into slavery and strangled their leaders in a basement in the capitol after parading them in chains in a march of triumph. The first group wishes to develop in the trials of enemy leaders a legal system, foreign to every concept of American jurisprudence, by which people can be punished for violations of laws made on the spot to create offenses in order to make murders legal. They hope that that same perversion of justice can later be imported into this country to punish opponents of the totalitarian state.

The other group which is so anxious to have every member of the defeated people regarded as a criminal hopes by that process to attaint the whole German nation and thereby justify the expropriation of its property.

These proponents of legalized looting, it may be depended upon, will change their song after a few years.

They will have the German factories, but they will need the German people to work them. To achieve that end they will, in time, be telling the world that the Germans are really a misunderstood people and that we ought to forgive them and accept the products that they are turning out in the industries that were expropriated.

The crimes of the nazis were, as the whole world knows, a stench to heaven. That fact, however, must not be made an excuse to engage this country in a program of organized villainy which will remain a stain on our consciences for generations to come.

Hell Spews Forth Its Fire

ATOMIC BOMB, JEWISH PRODUCT

WASHINGTON,—It is high justice that the atomic bomb has been launched against Japanese fascism with the aid of scientists who were refugees from Nazi racial discrimination.

On the day that the White House issued President Truman's statement, and that Prime Minister Attlee did the same thing with Mr. Churchill's announcement, about the development and potentialities of the bomb, the British Information Services in Washington made available very apropos information about Professor Rudolph Ernest Peierls and Dr. Otto Robert Frisch, both of whom, ironically, had been forced to leave Germany, because they happened to be Jews.

DR. FRISCH

Dr. Frisch, through his study of neutrons, was one of the first to realize the possibility of developing a bomb of unprecedented violence, and has been concentrating on this project since early 1940. In fact, he provided one-half of a nephew-aunt team, when he and his aunt, Dr. Lise Meitner, also a refugee from the Nazis, conducted valuable uranium experiments bombarding uranium by neutrons in Copenhagen at the institute of Professor Niels Bohr, the noted Danish psysicist. —Charles Benson.

* * * *

"At the beginning of 1939, Dr. Otto Hahn and Dr. E. Strassmann (German physicists) in connection with earlier work done in collaboration with me, discovered the fission of uranium into lighter elements. Dr. Otto R. Frisch (Danish physicist) and I then gave the explanation of this phenomenon on the basis of Dr. Niels Bohr's model of the atomic nucleus and we were able to show that this process (uranium fission) involves an enormous liberation of energy." (Dr. Bohr is the Danish physicist and Nobel Prize winner who was first to tell the Allies of Dr. Meitner's findings.) —Lise Meitner.

FOREWORD

In presenting this volume to the public we do so without apology, simply calling attention to the fact that more voluminous publications upon this subject, and excerpts thereof, have been repeatedly confiscated, not only in one but in various countries. We set no claim to the subject matter herein given, other that that the statements made have been gathered from Johannitan communities, Coptic monasteries, and other recognized sources of so-called Gospel teachings which Christian associations dare not deny. We do not desire to compel any association or organization to refute these statements, for should they endeavor so to do they would weaken their officious attitude and heap more condemnation upon their own heads.

Suffice it to say that it will serve the purpose of humanity far better to know the Truth than to be hiding behind Falsity. If we have found the world in bondage, which to deny no man dares, it is because the naked Truth has been denied, for our Savior declares "the Truth shall make you free." Therefore, we dedicate this volume to the cause of Truth that every man, woman and child may gain final emancipation by its power.

Generally known as Jesus the Christ. His Life and Mission as Found Recorded in Oriental Temples. CHAPTER I.

In relating the story of Jesus, or Master Yessu, as He was commonly known by the people and His own kinsfolk, it becomes necessary to also portray the peculiar social, religious and political conditions as well as the strange customs and aspects of the moral standard current in those days.

Politically, the land of Israel was in chaos and its people in an unsettled frame of mind owing to the fact that the scepter had been taken away from Judah and the proud and mighty nation, whose people were chosen of Yaho (God), subjected to the rule and government of Rome—to the Hebrew a humiliation, to the church a terrible blow. The people were as much divided politically as they were religiously, and the breech between priest and layman had reached a point where it was only a question of time when the former would be utterly annihilated.

Repeatedly had the nation been subjected to tribute and oppression by foreign powers; repeatedly had the people of Israel put their trust in the prophecies that the scepter would not be taken from Judah until He, whose right it was to reign, would come. Yet repeatedly had they wandered into captivity and become scattered over the earth; but whenever returning to their Land of Promise, the land of their fathers, endeavoring to rebuild the places sacred to their hearts, they were compelled to meet with the same bitter experiences which shattered all their hopes for a recognized nationality. Still Israel hoped to rise in power; still the faithful looked forward to a time when their King of Glory would appear. How they loved to lull themselves into this state of fanciful unconsciousness, forgetting that their hopes, unfounded, could never become a reality.

Israel waited. Should she have waited all these years in vain? The Promised One had not come, had not appeared to spare His people from all this lowly humiliation.

Uneasiness began to size the people; they felt the yoke upon their necks, and bending to greater subjection slowly realized that not only were their noses being kept to the grindstone, but they were compelled to also do the grinding.

While the church continued to burden them with tithes and place unbearable obligations upon them, they were also heavily taxed and compelled to pay tribute to the Emperor. They were flogged and fleeced on every side. Those with wealth and abundance misused the good nature of the peasantry for their own selfish ends, while class-distinction and class-consciousness was being rapidly nourished in the minds of the latter.

Socially, degradation and vice became the leading factors, and the moral standard was at par with licentiousness, and intrigue and crime estimated so low that even the interpreters of the law, the judges, no longer knew the difference between right and wrong, owing to the inconsequential ammendments made by Rome to the Mosaic law and to the laws of their own country.

The governing element was divided principally into two classes, the nobility and the priesthood. The nobility contended mainly for the gratification of their baser senses, keeping within the law insofar as it favored them in gaining their selfish ends, professing the school of Sadducees and making use of the voice of the people whenever it was necessary to secure a position of favor that would meet with their insatiable ambitions.

The priesthood, or priestly element— the Pharisees, or Perushim, "Pure, Separate Ones" —in their determined effort for power and for the strict adherence to the letter of the law, were constantly on the warpath of disputation with the Sadducees, especially so when the latter were favored with rank and position, which fact greatly exercised an influence over the masses and incited them to act against the practices of the Pharisees.

Yet, whenever the Sadducees lost their foothold and found themselves dethroned, the masses would shift over to the Pharisees and lend to them a more attentive ear. The ambition to govern and exercise their power was the covert thot of the nation from the simplest to the most enlightened mind.

No wonder the masses took up with any movement which promised national recognition, and were ever eager and willing to sway to that side which held out the greatest inducements. The high-priesthood was no longer a position of ability and choice, but merely an object of intrigue, rivalry and bribery, to which end no means were too base.

Israel was thus not only in chaos because of the external influence, but divided and scattered internally and in constant danger of revolt, war and destruction. Still, in spite of all these sad affairs there grew and flourished an element of a strongly conservative type of piety, which in its humbler state hoped for liberation from this chaotic state of uncertainty by placing implicit faith in the prophecies that God would "raise one from out among their brethren who would lead them from temptation into light."

While the princes and their nobility, the priests and their scribes, were contending over the spoils, each one eagerly seeking recognition and favor from the Ruler to whom they had been subjected and upon whose placation their positions depended, there were also those who in quietude and solitude were viewing the situation from every possible aspect and drawing conclusions which led them to the adoption of steps most conducive to the desired end.

These faithful ones were scattered about in small numbers; tho espousing no particular party, they were known as covenanters, ever ready to cast their lot wherever the most good would be assured to the greatest number.

Love for their country, their people, their fathers, their prophets, and their God inspired them to sacrifice their posessions and whatever seemed dear to their hearts, yea, even more, even life itself, in the hope thereby to avert the approaching danger and check the growing desires for destruction so affecting the minds of the people and preventing the realization of their higher ideals. Our Vacation Trip

People in San Diego don't know how well off they are. If one goes thru Oakland, Berkeley, and San Francisco, one realizes that our local government, our local living conditions, our streets, houses and transportation facilities are tops compared to the above named cities. My trip took me there and the bleakness, the dirty and poorly paved streets, the unpainted houses, it all reminds me of a badly managed factory town. I was impatient with some of the pavements in San Diego, but, my Lord, San Francisco is just nothing but bumps and cracks all the way. Our San Diego street railway company, being a private concern, keeps up its right of way in proper repair. You should see what the streetcar right of way looks like in San Francisco. The labor racket union forced municipal ownership upon the city and now the right of way is just a shambles. Ancient pavement that jars and shakes you every inch of the way. That shows what a combination of labor racket and municipal ownership of transportation produces. San Diego is a paradise by comparison.

Drove on schedule from San Diego to Los Angeles. Spent 2 nights with different friends, and while I slept less than I would have at home, the change of atmosphere, people and events lifted my spirits way above the lack of physical sleep. Was in Inglewood the first night when the populace went wild over Japan's surrender. Stayed off the streets. In San Francisco they raped women in plain daylight by having sailors gang up on the girls and fighting the police. It was a terrible experience. Many got killed and at least 1000 wounded. If that's what they do with their own American women, what did they do in Germany and France? War is hell and makes beasts of people. Victory? The devil is victorious and ALL humanity loses.

Then the profiteers divide the swag and all we get is to pay the bills and shut up or go to jail. No shutting up for us. War is murder, crime and the criminal financial pirates throw us into bondage and our children, to pay and pay and pay and die for their bloody profits. Liberty? Hell, liberty to pay and shut up or go to jail, that's the result of war! Bill of Rights? If your conscience does not approve of war, to jail with you, ask the Jehovah's witnesses. Who said the USA fought for religious liberty when it puts free men and women in jail for adherence to the teachings of the Christ? Yes, you are free to die and bleed and to have the surplus government property, paid for in your hard taxes, sold to you again by Jewish peddlers at a profit. They sold scrap iron to Japan and are selling us our own scrap now. Profit coming and going and all we have to do is be "tolerant", pay the bills and shut up!

I discovered on this trip that it pays to have courage to tell the truth and take the consequences. I met people everywhere who just adored me for daring to keep on speaking out. It was a relief to them to meet me among all these cowards who dare not call their souls their own while they prattle about liberty everywhere in the world, in the meantime financing and supplying Russia for the next world war in which we shall be the victim.

The trip over the High Sierras lifted me way out of the mire in which the war atmosphere has thrown a whole world. God and His mountains are still clean and pure. The Sun is still in the heavens and the murderous caravan passes away to be remembered in history as the dark age when fools used the atomic power to enthrone Beelzebub by offering to chase the devil away.

It is good to make such trips and get out from under the hysteria of slave minds and regimentation who dare not look the truth in the face and speak it. How low America has fallen when it uses all its resources to enslave Europe to the Communist juggernaut! What a horrible future have we prepared for our children who will have to take the backwash of the "secret" of the atomic bombs, now that all nations on earth are hell bent to produce their own and give us a dose of our own medicine.

Truth About Atomic Power

A CHAT WITH FREDRIC

"Your concept, your language, the terms you use, are quite different, have a meaning at variance with the language of our scientists whose discoveries and achievements are being publicized at present in the realm of atomic power, daddy," said Fredric, our younger son, to his father the day he visited us, having come from Los Angeles where he attends the university in chemical engineering.

"Our scientists are murderers, unprincipled, callous and as ignorant as the night itself. Their concept of the atom is all haywire and their description is wrong. Naturally, then I have an attitude radically at variance with theirs, therefore I continue to use my own terminology to express the truth regardless of their phenomenal success at murdering defenseless people. Brutality is no qualification for wisdom, love of truth or intellectual integrity. They have never split the atom, can never split the atom and what they call atomic power is nature's defense against their intrusion in her sacred laboratory".

"But, daddy," said Fred, "those professors and experimentators are in the majority, the press uses their language and the people accept that language as the truth. If you want to reach the public, you, too, will have to accept the popular words and use them accordingly. You are in the minority and few people will realize that you mean something else by the word atom and atomic power".

"The abuse of the term atom and atomic is just as bad as the abuse of the term Christian and Christ. Our murderers claim to be Christians, too, and that hairbrained fool, Federal Judge Yankwich, berates Witnesses who refuse to serve the Devil, by charging them with betrayal of the U. S. Constitution because they will not kill other people to "preserve religious freedom". This idiot on the federal bench cannot think straight enough to realize that the freedom of the Jehovah's Witness, his Bill of Rights, means that he shall not have to kill in violation of the Christ injunction. And equally, so, our criminal scientists have a completely wrong concept of atomic functions, hence they use it for destructive ends and if that goes on the whole continent will go the way of Lemuria and Atlantis. One cannot outrage nature with impunity".

"Then why don't you give a clear outline of what atomic science is so at least your readers will get a correct concept?"

"The relationship of the atom to protons, neutrons, electrons etc., is the same as your relationship to your body. YOU are not composed of organs, you are the divine UNIT which produces organs when it takes control of the sperm and the ovum, fertilized in your mother's womb. Still, you are apart from the body as it forms and grows and you impart it your peculiar characteristics from the day of conception till the day of death. And during all that time, YOU, as the divine entity, are not the body, the body can be destroyed, but not you. You live on and as you choose, you start the process all over again and incarnate some other time and place."

"But, daddy, when the scientists succeed to separate the electron from the proton in a hydrogen atom, then that splits the atom which gives forth forces that can be utilized. And as the proton takes on another electron, even the whole nature of the hydrogen atom is changed and it becomes a different atomic element".

"No, Fred, the picture is wrong. What happens can be illustrated by the example I cited. The atom is the material UNIT, just as YOU are the LIFE unit, having consciousness: I AM, which is absent in the physical atom. The condition of your body does not affect your ENTITY, you can even separate from the body and build a new one. Therefore the ATOM, itself, Cannot Be Split. Protons, neutrons, electrons are its functions. But what actually happens is this:

"Nature is like a beautiful woman and the atom is her creative force center. Try and rape a true woman and she will fight you and even kill you, or herself. But find your way to her heart and she will give herself to you with perfect joy and abandon. The same in Nature. When you attempt to split nature's vagina, as in the example of forcing a separation between electron and proton, you merely open up her organs of productive force by violence and she defends herself by an erruption of flame and power. But you never split that center in two. You merely forced entry into the secret and sacred source of FORCE. The intruder is ejected in a burst of flame.

"In the case of the uranium bomb, there is no splitting of any atom at all, merely an attempt to mutilate the atom and to infringe on its private functions, that releases tremendous bursts of flame which are used to explode other chemicals at a terrific pressure and this reaches a vehemence which collapses the human organism in its radius. But no atom was ever split. Nature repels the intruder and if he persisted he would be destroyed first, before he could ever really split her atomic organs. The resultant changes in what the chemists call atomic structure, are nothing but defense processes and results, like bruises on an at first lovely body and skin. Certainly a chemical change takes place."

"How is this atomic reaction going to be utilized without violence?"

"Exactly as you can have the woman if you win her heart. She is a woman in the first place because she wants to function as such. Now all you need do is appeal to her and if you fill the bill of what she expects of you, she will gladly give herself and all of her life powers to you and consider it a privilege.

"Atomic source of power is Nature's creative FORCE organism. It has been constructed to serve the spirit of LOVE and usefulness. What is used today by cunning by the scientists who rape nature and murder people, can be had free when attained in the Spirit in which God planned the whole structure of the universe. By following that plan, First, and its RIGHTEOUSNESS, all of Nature's powers are at our disposal. In this fashion we shall in time control free energy, as we control free will now.

"You are free to lift your hand or not to lift it. At the command of your will the hand goes up or down. As we awaken to the true LOVE of God and fellow man, Nature will not merely lift your hand, as you do today, and mind you, that hand is a material organ responsive to your will, but by mere thought we will control force, control the ethers as we control our voice and when we say a certain word in our mind, just as we can move our body, we shall move mountains as well, because Nature's forces will be as responsive to us as a loving woman responds to the desires of her mate and showers upon him all her sweetness."

Defends Gesell's 'Free Money'

Dear Friend:

Your article in recent issue of "The Broom", headed "Nationalized Land, Managed Money", "Gesell Free Money" grossly misrepresents and gives such a distorted picture of Gesell's land & money teachings to the uninformed reader that it cannot be left without contradiction.

Two short sentences from Gesell's "The Natural Economic Order" are quoted, which do not convey a convincing message but rather instead one which must be challenged by informed readers.

The first sentence is "The long murderous Civil War in the United States was simply a struggle against land lords". This sentence in the N. E. O. was preceded by the following: "All the small natural liberties which we enjoy today, such as freedom of movement and settlement, the abolition of slavery and serfdom, had to be won from the land lords by force of arms, for the land lords used powder and shot to defend their interests". And the above quotation was followed by: "The opposition to every kind of progress proceeds from the land lords; if it depended on them, freedom of movement and settlement and universal suffrage would long ago have been sacrificed to the interest of rent on land." With this supplementation the statement of Gesell is proven and the American Patriot of the South, if he can think, and justly, will know that the abbreviated statement in your article is true and that you deprive Gesell of this argument and create an adverse impression.

The same holds true of your second short quotation from Gesell: "With nationalization of the land all these troubles instantanously disappear". In the N. E. O. this sentence is followed by: "Agrarian politics will melt like snow in the sun of LIBERATION OF THE SOIL".

Liberation of the soil is what Gesell realizes but with the brief quotation mentioning nationalization the false impression is created that Gesell wanted to nationalize production of the soil, farming, mining, etc. Whoever has even a superficial knowledge of Gesell knows positively that nothing is further from Gesell's mind. Gesell wants, as he stated in the sentence following the quoted one—LIBERATION OF THE SOIL, the restoration of Man's birthright, viz. equal opportunity of access to land, with neither private land lords nor state land lords. The land was only to be entrusted to the representatives of the people (the Government) for the "Apportioning" of use-title, thus realizing everyone's right to use land for living and producing purpose, a solution which Beckwith, Otto & Wilcox would apparently claim as their own but which has been Gesell's for over 50 years.

Beckwith considers the human body as the first capital. But this "capital" whilst requiring maintenance, food, clothing and shelter, does not yield interest. Only for special effort will compensation be yielded, in products and wages, but no interest, so that we might just as well—if it yielded interest—go to bed and let the interest come forth. The fact is that no capital yields interest by nature, neither money nor real capital goods. But they yield it on the market, money in the exchange with goods and real capital goods when supply of them is less than the demand for them. Traditional money which can be withheld from the exchange can always exact interest-tribute or stay put, be withheld. Just like land, money is not perishable and unless the tribute of rent for land or interest for money is granted, neither land nor money are available.

The Beckwith, Otto, Wilcox economists find nothing wrong with interest. WE DO. It is the curse of the ages and emanates from the fact that money is not subject like "capital" to perishability, forcing one to make use of his time, or like real capital goods which being subject to deterioration must be offered for use but can only exact interest if the supply is short.

Because money-capital produces all the real capital goods and because money capital demands interest for its use else be hoarded, real capitals can only be produced upon condition that they in turn yield interest on the invested money capital. This is only possible when not too many houses, etc., are built. The more houses—the lower the rent. Therefore, money capital, the father of all capital goods, sees to it that there is always an insufficient supply of real capital goods and that never too much of them are produced. Money can do this. It is not like Beckwith's capital-man hungry and perishable. It is timeless, it can wait without getting hungry and thin. Thus it happens that everything that money creates and has created in the past can exact the interest tribute. On the entire national wealth, or 600 billions of dollars, at 6 per cent interest, is now 36 billion dollars annually. This is about half of our former peace time production. It means that all incomes from work are cut in half and that half is given to the interest recipients. But having to permit exploitation by 50 per cent of our proceeds is not all. The worst is that to keep the real-capital goods interest-exacting the supply must be kept short. This is the explanation of why money capital goes on strike after every period of diligence of man, when he has tried to satify some of his needs and wants. Then idle money renders men idle. Mass unemployment and no wages are the result. Freeing of the land alone would not help us much. True it might afford a scant living. But to build up a state of civilization and culture, we must have the division of labor which is only possible with unhoarded money. Upon the proper function of money our prosperity depends. Gesell would insure this function. In barter both sides are under the urge to exchange. In the money economy, the consumer having surplus money or savings is not under any such urge. We hold that traditional-hoardable money, violates the natural law of perishability to which all and everything else is subjected. Gesell abolishes this unjustified superiority of money. He places money on a level with the things it has to exchange. And it is in the mutuality of the urge of entering the market for exchange that there is justice and this basic-justice can be established in the entire economic realm if we use money according to the rules of natural law. I. E. we must match an increased production with an adequately increased volume of such active money.

Barter, with a depreciation urge on both sides does not kill human thrift. On the contrary with active money we can expand production to capacity and save tremendously. Certainly not by withholding money from its true function as a medium of exchange or by what Beckwith miscalls credits but by saving real wealth, all the things we want or need, homes, equipment, etc., which make life comfortable and agreeable, or if we do not want them, we invest our money in credits to private people, to banks, insurance companies, non-interest bearing consols, etc., to town, city, county, state or federal government, so that they in turn can make use of it, and keep the economic circuit closed. After all, money exists only because production for exchange is waiting for it. This is the criterion of money's creation. Not the existence of the printing press. The idea of withholding money for saving is preposterous economically. It shows an abysmal ignorance and lack of penetration into economics.

He who sells his products must also buy products and services of his choice. If he does not do so but withholds the medium of exchange, someone else cannot sell his products and services, causing him to discontinue production and become unemployed, poor, which will make it impossible for the withholder of money to sell in his turn his continued production of services. Only in mutuality is it possible to continue and to enlarge production and increase our shares from production so that we can change and SAVE ever larger slices.

He who says that "evidently Gesell penalizes thrift as one would a crime" quite evidently does not as yet understand Gesell. Gesell harmonizes our unnatural medium of exchange with natural law. His money is the natural money, on the level with the products it has for exchange. By making prompt use of it, it will escape the penalization which nature imposes upon all products. Gesell money can never be deprived of its function. It is the only money which can maintain a stable ratio with production and thereby a stable value of money itself. Then the credits—not the money—saved in youth and middle life for declining years will not be depreciated nor appreciated at the expense of any debtors. . . It is the money which establishes abundant prosperity, security, justice, freedom and peace because it eliminates the curse of the interest exploitation and contraction of production.

With the Gesell freeing of money and land, capitalism will be stript of every vestige of exploitation and of every tendency to bureaucracy. With the realization of the Gesell proposals, the Natural Economic Order is established and stateism in form of socialism, Marxism, bolshevism, fascism, etc., have lost all reason to exist. Those interested in these epochal economic teachings which clarify the whole complex of economic problems should send 10cts to the Free-Economy Publishing Co., 309 Madison Street, San Antonio, Texas, for a systematic outline of these teachings.

Yours for more light. E. B. HILL.

Editor's Note: Mr. Hill makes a distinction between money and credit. He expects to use money for exchange of goods and credit for support in old age. If money does not represent credit what does it represent? Money is the measure of credit or else what is it? How are credit and money related? Gesell is attempting to correct men's morals by an economic device of vanishing money. That's his fallacy.

When dynamite was invented in the late 19th Century, anarchism was in its hey-day, and people freely predicted that Alfred Nobel's invention meant the end of urban civilization. But the bulkiness of dynamite made it too easily detectable to do the anarchist job. When a fountain-penful of uranium 235 (atom bomb base) will blow up a city, this safeguard is removed. We may have to detain important international figures in our cities as hostages in the future to protect ourselves from annihilation.

"Daily Worker" Labels All 'Anti-Reds' Fascist

N. Y. Paper Attacks Detroit Monetary Congress, After a Sneak Visit by Its Reporter

DETROIT (Special), Aug., 25,—An aftermath of the "Congress of Monetary Organizations," which met here a week ago, was the vicious attack upon the 140 delegates by New York's notorious Communist rag, "The Daily Worker," on Tuesday, Aug., 21.

Its local reporter, Harry Fainaru (who looks like an Armenian or Syrian), bulged into the opening session of the Congress and took a seat before the credentials committee could pass upon his admissibility. He was politely escorted out to interview the committee, who invited him to return in the afternoon for a press conference. He failed to return, and it is supposed that such stuff as he sent in to New York came from his brief visit, a cursory glimpse at the crowd, and his vivid imagination.

His slanderous article was prominently announced on the front page, "Fascists Hold Detroit Parley; Monetary Conference Used to Cloak Secret Conclave." The inside heading was equally libellous: "Fascists Meet in Monetary Parley Disguise."

All the prominent speakers who dared attack communism were smeared with false allegations and designations, including Mrs. Lyrl Clark Van Hyning, editor of "Woman's Voice," of Chicago.

Although admitting that Jews were not directly attacked, the article charged that in mentioning the "International bankers" the "Anti-Semites naturally meant the Jews."

The Worker classed as "veteran New York fascists and anti-semites" Messrs. Hudson De Priest, Col. E. N. Sanctuary, Ernest F. Elmhurst (falsely named as Fleischkopf), who, the paper alleged were holding secret meetings to hatch up fascist schemes. It also asserted the three were under indictment for sedition.

Of course, the foregoing charges are false in toto. There were no such meetings; none of these has any use for fascism; and as for being under indictment, the paper neglected to state that Hudson De Priest, although once falsely accused of conspiracy, the grand jury completely exonerated him. Mr. De Priest, the well-known journalist, denies that he ever wrote one line condemning any man's race, religion or nationality; that he has always distinguished between the acts of men, as individuals, and their race or religion.

The Monetary Congress missed a fine speech by not insisting upon their host, Mrs. Blanche Winters, appearing before the microphone. She is an eloquent, brilliant and sincere patriot, who has opposed communism for 27 years. She is a gifted orator, who once ran for mayor of Detroit, to popularize her cause.

Once the head of a Communist nation has the atom bomb, we will all be at his mercy. The bomb is so small it could be planted secretly in every city in America by Communists fifth columnists. A Stalin-like tyrant could then go into a future conference and threaten to blow up every city in America if he did not get his way, using radio detonation to set off the bombs.

Know Your Sovereignity

THE CONSTITUTION CANNOT BE AMENDED BY EXECUTIVE DECREE

THAT IDEA IS TREASON

Yet the President asked the Senate to ratify a charter which the Senate has no constitutional right to consider.

A CHARTER IS NOT A TREATY

This charter sets up a United States supergovernment whose authority is greater than that of the Constitution.

It takes away the constitutional powers of the Congress by authorizing a delegate appointed by the President to and to send our army and navy all over the world.

TO MAKE TREATIES.

To spend the U. S. taxpayers' money for the education, economic security and welfare of every nation on the globe.

Those Senators who voted to ratify this charter will be guilty of treason.

If the President signs this ratification, he will be guilty of treason.

Senators admit this charter nullifies the Constitution, but they say: the people want it.

WHO are the people who want to overthrow our constitutional form of government? Has your Senator heard from you?

If it is true the people of the U. S. want this charter ratified, then let it be submitted to the people in the form of constitutional amendments, as provided in our Constitution.

If the people permit any other action, they will be a party to the overthrow of our constitutional government, betrayers of the men in the armed forces who are dying in defense of our Republic, and as traitors and cowards, deserve the dictatorship they are imposing upon themselves.—C. Schroeder, Post Falls, Idaho.

John Roy Carlson, whose real name is Avedis Boghos Derounian and who has operated in cooperation with numerous un-American groups, including the Communist Party, is now being sponsored by the War Department. He speaks on the subject: "The Psychological Enemy at Home." In this address he makes untrue attacks on Nationalist leaders.

Atom-Smashing Bomb Goes Into Use

The first atom bomb in the history of man's destruction of his fellow-man and nature has dropped on Japan. Hiroshima (which means Beautiful Isle)—the most beautiful spot of what was the most beautiful country in the world—Hiroshima, was the taking-off place for the templed island with the red lacquered Torii extending out into the blue Inland Sea. On the temple's portico here, a young Jap priest once offered to trade me poems. He wrote of his hope for peace between his nation and mine, and of spiritual fullness for the world. It is ironic, indeed, that Hiroshima was chosen as the test target for this terrible instrument of destruction. But Hiroshima might be the best object lesson to our thinking, because we put human life—even of enemies—above beauty. The Japanese put beauty above human life. Those of us who have known of the existence of this weapon for a year or more and the fact that it was to be used on Japan as soon as the European war was over, but was not to be used in Europe, have looked with apprehension to the day of its use. We understand that it was not used on the Germans because of the wierd idea that they are, after all, of the same race as ourselves; although it might be more human to kill than enslave and starve them, as is being done. If we used the atom bomb weapon in Europe, possibly the Russians would get it—but Stalin's agents have been spying all around the fringes of our experimental plants. Callously it has been said that although it is well to keep people thinking about peace conferences, they do not matter, since he who would first produce the atom bomb would control the planet. That seems to be us—the U. S. A. What a terrible responsibility—and temptation! and of course our rivals will never rest until they too have, and then it could be applied—we are told—to the extent of blasting this planet into a collection of asteroids circuing barren, around the sun." —Upton Close.

THE LAW OF RETRIBUTION.—PLUS ATOMIC POWER

To the President and Commander-in-Chief:

PRESIDENT HARRY TRUMAN:

The best schooled and best churched and most drunken—with booze-and-with-power nation in History is prostituting atomic power to demoniac purposes. In its true or beneficent use, atomic power holds the world together. It holds continents together.

DRUNKEN MEN AND NATIONS ARE WITHOUT MORAL RESPONSIBILITY.

Atomic power is far too explosive for a drunken—with booze-and-with-power—nation to use

Even the best-schooled and best-churched of nations is answerable to the Law of Retribution. The Law of Retribution holds the physical world by the Law of Atomic Relations. The Law of Retribution decrees that they who prostitute atomic beneficence and power to demoniac purposes will perish by atomic explosiveness.

As the official head of this drunken—with-booze-and-with-power— nation of ours you should know that you cannot misuse atomic forces in a drunken and destructive way and the nation not be answerable to the Law of Retribution. YOU MUST HARMONIZE WITH THE SCHEME OF CREATIVE BENEFICENCE, rather than PROSTITUTE ITS POWER TO DEMONIAC ENDS.—

ADELBERT CORNELL, Boise Valley Herald.

Edward R. Stettinius, former Secretary of State, is now living in the White House in the same apartment formerly occupied by Mr. Harry Hopkins.
